NEW YORK, December 7.—Twentyfoir hours from now it is certain that the Baltimore International League franchise will have been transferred to Richmond. The matter was taken up to hay at a six-hour session of the International magnates. W. B. Bradley, of Richmond, was on hand, and stated that he had sufficient financial backing

Barrow Appoints Committee.
The magnates of the International League held the first session of their 1814 meeting this afternoon and tonight, and when the session adjourned. President Barrow announced that nothink had been accomplished except the appointment of a committee to handle the matter of changing the circuit.

Delegates from Syracuse and Richmond were in attendance, and put in a strong bid for the franchises new held by Jersey City and Baltimore. In asking for the Jersey City franchise, the visitors from Syracuse said they were backed by two capitalists, members of the Chamber of Commerce, and would agree to erect a concrete stand and provide a good diamond.

The committee named to consider the changes is composed of J. J. Dunn, E. G. Barrow, Charles H. Ebbets, C. P.T. Chapin and J. J. Lannin. It will report before the meeting adjourns.

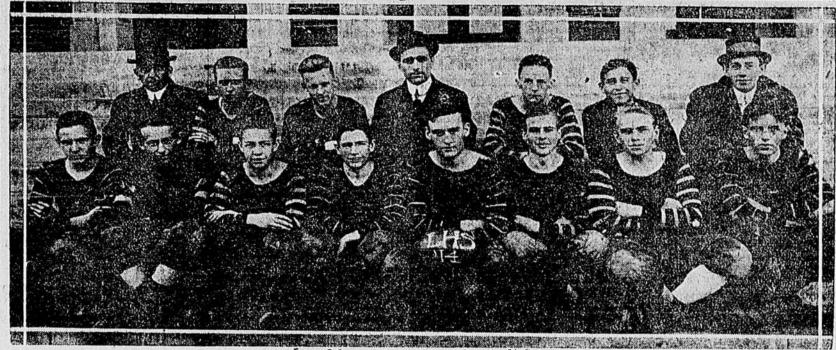

An effort was made to place a team in Brooklyn, but met with scant oncouragement, its chief opponent being Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National League team.

The magnates here seem to be of one opinion, viz.: that the recent activity of the Federal League has had only of affluence, into recognition of the Federal League, and when they say that the Federals are trying to frighten them these bluff and hearty magnates laugh.

"Frighten us? Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

There is something about that laugh that is dimly reminiscent of a small boy trudging past a cemetery in the dark with his hands deep in his pockets and a "cheery" whistle issuing from his tightly-pursed lips.

World's Series of Eleven Games to Come Up for Discussion This

And the dear public would pay the freight.

An eleven-game series is not practical if organized baseball folks continue their 154-game schedule, which does not close the regular season until about October 8. That would make the first world series date about October 10. Assuming that the series ran the full limit and the contending teams were Easterners, it would mean that the series would not be completed until the latter part of October. It might even run into November.

Add eleven playing days and two or three Sundays (days on which the Eastern clubs do not play), and you bring the series up to the twenty-third or twenty-fourth.

The latter part of October is usually productive of bad weather. Probably it would rain for three days during the two weeks, which would shift the series along the twenty-sixth or twenty-seventh. It is more than likely that one og two of those games would result in ties and would have to be played over, as the October days are short, and even though the games start at 2 o'clock, it is rarely that teams can play more than eleven innings. Figuring in all these little items it will be seen that the series might run to October 28, with only two or three bad days figured in. There might be a bad spell of weather that would stretch cver a week's length, as was the case during 1911, when the players were marooned in Philadelphia for seven days. Such a happening would send the players into November to play their eleventh game.

Such a happening would send the players into November to play their eleventh game.

Fandom likes baseball. It will pay almost any price asked to see a blue ribbon battle. And it will make many sacrifices. But it seems unlikely that fandom will risk pneumonia and other ailments and ills to attend in force ball games that are played in the latter part of October and the first part of November, merely to swell the bank rolls of the money-hungry magnates.

The report that the Scholasticange of Church Hill Athletic Club football game, which had to be called off last Saturday on account of rail, will be played at Broad Street Fark next Saturday at 3 o'clock, has been confirmed. The chairman of the committee in charge of arranging the committee in charge of arranging the committee in charge of arranging the committee in the polying and the Church Hill Athletic Club hast night unanimously voted to play Saturday next for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund.

Secretary W. B. Bradley has also renewed his offer of the grounds free of charge for the benefit of the cause, which has been accepted by the committee, and it is expected that the other features will be put through as previously arranged.

The season is a little late for football, but in view of the fact that the game is staged for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund, which is receiving such enthusiastic support from the public-spirited people of this city and State, and the further fact that this game decides the much discussed question as to who are the independent football champions of Richmond, the players are training for this contest with true first-of-the-season spirit and with a determination to win which indicates that the contest will be one long remembered by local football entails.

The entire proceeds of the game will be ourned over to Colonel Boykin to be turned over to Colonel Boykin to be invested in food to be sent over on Virginia's ship to the Belgians, and as the game promises to be a thriller, and the cause is a worthy one, it is expected that, with the price of admission at 25 cents, including grand stand seats, a large crowd from among the sport-town at the cause is a worthy one, it is expected that, with the price of admission at 25 cents, including grand stand seats, a large crowd from among the sport-town at the cause is a worthy one, it is expected that, with the price of admission at 25 cents, including grand stand seats, a large crowd from among the sport-town at the cau
